Slowly, mysteriously

VOICE

PIANO

The musical score is written for voice and piano. It begins with a tempo and mood instruction: "Slowly, mysteriously". The key signature has one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 4/4. The voice part is written on a single staff, and the piano part is written on a grand staff (treble and bass clefs). The score is divided into three systems. The first system contains the first line of the song. The second system contains the second line. The third system contains the third line. The piano part includes fingerings (numbers 1-5) and dynamic markings (mf, mp). There are some handwritten annotations, including a large scribble over the piano part in the second system and a circled note in the piano part of the second system.

STUDIES in the FORM of RECREATIONS

A Book Every Teacher Has Wished For

Contains first grade pieces for harmonic analysis to be used in the first few months of piano lessons. Teaches the elements of theory beyond the mere learning of notes. Free from all technical difficulties and interesting because pupils play and sing little tunes to be analysed. A book to broaden the scope for musical pleasure and appreciation.

Published with special "Introductory Page to Teachers" on loose insert.

Price, 60 cents

A Beginner's Book Just Bubbling With Delightful Instruction

Particularly designed for the beginner of the usual age. Treble and bass used at once. New notes are presented gradually so that the young student may not become discouraged by too great a range of notes. To insure equality of the hands, exercises for the left hand alone are frequently used.

A Frolic in Octaves

This brilliant piece requires very little technical skill but when performed in the tempo makes a splendid recital number. It is a fine study for early second grade pupils.

Price, 20 cents

A Scale Recreation

This clever and melodious little March is intended to make scale practice a recreation. The harmonic treatment of "marching the scale" is indeed unique.
